Kristi is the Managing Shareholder of Brownson PLLC. With nearly 25 years of experience in a litigation practice that takes her across the country, Kristi has expansive expertise in insurance coverage and asbestos litigation. Collegial and engaging, Kristi is as comfortable at a ranch in North Dakota as she is in a boardroom in Manhattan. Driven to win every case, she values working closely with her clients as she seeks innovative ways to achieve the best outcome.

Insurance Coverage Litigation

Kristi skillfully represents insurers in personal and commercial general liability insurance coverage disputes. The unique challenge of representing insurance companies is Kristi's forte, as she brings sensitivity to managing and resolving contentious cases. Valuing that her clients are experts in their fields, she collaborates with them to devise strategies for handling complex issues. Adept with lengthy insurance policies, she understands the language and knows how courts across the United States have variously interpreted it.

She has litigated jury trials in state and federal courts, and handles cases involving:

- insurance fraud
- historical lost policy issues
- primary/excess coverage issues
- multi-year, long-term exposure coverage allocation issues
- insurance coverage arbitrations
- insurance policy exhaustion procedures and disputes

Asbestos Defense Litigation

Kristi has been involved in asbestos liability litigation for her entire career. She represents manufacturers and distributors in personal injury and wrongful death asbestos liability claims in Minnesota and North Dakota. She serves as National Coordinating Counsel, regional counsel, and North Dakota trial counsel.

Kristi brings a successful track record of managing and ending asbestos litigation cases. Directing lawyers on cases across the country from start to finish, she's unwavering in protecting her clients from being barraged during the litigation process. She skillfully analyzes cases and addresses legal defenses immediately, often identifying cases before they start for early resolution and responsible settlement. With creative legal thinking, she minimizes her client's exposure, swiftly gets cases dismissed, and significantly reduces their caseload.

North Dakota Litigation

Kristi has handled thousands of cases in every North Dakota judicial district, and has conducted jury trials and appeals to the North Dakota Supreme Court. A native of Bismarck, she is extremely proud to be from North Dakota, and defending clients in the state are near and dear to her heart. Her family descends from Dakota Territory homesteaders and has been involved in cattle ranching, farming, education, and public office. Kristi was elected to leadership as a State 4-H Ambassador, charged with training members statewide. Because of her rural cultural heritage, she knows the issues and generates trust and instant credibility with juries and judges.

In addition, she has consistently served for nearly 15 years as the exclusive Panel Counsel for a group of major property and casualty insurers in North Dakota, handling the entire scope of their commercial, professional, and innkeeper liability matters. They rely on her savvy knowledge and experience to favorably settle cases, obtain summary judgment or dismissals, and successfully litigate cases.

Leadership

Kristi is dedicated to serving as the law firm's Managing Shareholder, fostering excellence and a collaborative culture among its talented lawyers and staff. She has served as an Adjunct Professor at Mitchell/Hamline Law School, teaching Lawyering: Advice and Persuasion in the school's Executive L.D. (EJD) program, the nation's first combined on-campus/online program at an ABA-approved law school; and an Adjunct Professor teaching Legal Writing at the University of Minnesota Law School.

Outside the courtroom, Kristi has a commitment to diversity as one of the few female law firm leaders in Minnesota. In 2018, she served as a moderator at the national Perrin Diversity and Inclusion in the Legal Industry Conference in Philadelphia. Kristi also devotes her energy to charitable activities focusing on the homeless and rescue animals, including the two cats and two dogs she has adopted.
