With the fresh perspective of a millennial and the incisive thinking and judgment of a sharp, prepared mind, Tim creatively and efficiently helps the firm's clients achieve their goals. He thrives at the intersection of strategy and the law, where he has the ability to turn complex issues into powerful, persuasive arguments for the firm's clients. Detail oriented, he remains mindful of the big picture, aware that even seemingly insignificant facts can become crucial in a case. He brings skillful thinking and improved efficiency with his ability to organize, manage, and present critical information, and clearly present information.

Tim stays current through continuous monitoring of legal developments and reports in the areas of litigation and insurance coverage to help clients both locally and nationally.

Tim represents corporations and insurance companies and works closely with the firm's clients on a variety of insurance coverage issues, including:

- lost policy identification
- historical policy form changes, terms, and conditions
- primary/excess coverage issues
- first party coverage
- insurance fraud

Tim assists in preparation of responses to discovery in complex, multi-jurisdictional asbestos litigation for a client to whom the firm is National Corporate Litigation Counsel.

Tim has managed client matters at various stages of both state and federal litigation.

In addition to his practice, Tim acts as a pro bono Asylum Attorney for the Advocates of Human Rights in Minneapolis, Minnesota.
